WORKSHOP

The workshop involves young kids aged 10 to 14, or an older age group, in the process of designing a new musical instrument, making music and performing together while using new tools and technology in an exciting and fun way. At first children are given drawing pencils and blank sheets of paper in order to draw a sketch of a musical instrument they have never seen before. The instrument is hidden inside a black box in the centre of the room. They are given tips, basic concepts and ideas of how that instrument has been built. Then, they are asked to open the box and assemble the instrument. Once assembled they are invited to play the instrument in groups from two to four while others register their actions in sound, video and images. At the end the children will have created an image, video and sound library that can later be used in other activities such as a musical installation at their school.
